MAKER PROVOCATIONS

The maker movement has grown beyond its original home in standalone makerspaces and into schools, libraries, and community spaces. What new perspectives on making, learning, and playful exploration are emerging? Join us for an afternoon of short provocations, hands-on explorations, and conversations led by Addie Matteson, Pete Pasque, and Justin Schell. While all are welcome at this free event, it is designed for an audience with experience facilitating maker learning or makerspaces.
